When

July 1 - August 15, 2024 with an option to extend for personal travel for a small fee.

Who is eligible

The exchange is designed for Business and Economics students. However, students that have some GE background in Business or Economics can talk to Dr. Lange for permission.

Faculty

Dr. Lange from Cal Poly's Department of Economics will fly with you to Hannover. He is a native from Hannover and taught at the Leibniz University of Hannover for many years. He will help you to settle in and he will lead the course excursions.

Classes

You will take courses in Hannover together with the German students, who in Fall will visit Cal Poly. All classes are specially designed for the exchange and are taught in English language. You transfer up to 12 units to your major. Your Department Chair can help with information about transferring the credits.

Business/Economics Campus

Social Life

You will be in close contact with the German exchange students. In the past, German and U.S. students were bonding with each other very well. They showed each other around in Hannover and Pomona and great friendships have resulted from the exchange.

Squad and Cafeteria

Living in Hannover

Hannover is a lively city with a 24/7 public transportation system.

Hannover Old Town

During the summer months people in Hannover enjoy relaxing in one of the many outdoor cafe's or have a drink and a sausage in one of the beer gardens. Hannover has many museums , theaters and quite a few clubs.

Beer Garden in Hannover

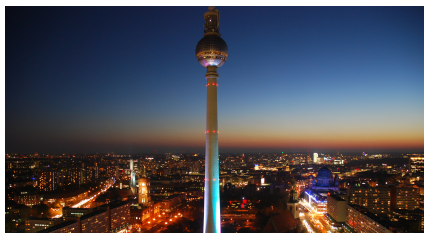

Student housing is just 5 minutes walking from the city center and 10 min. by subway from the old town and the Maschsee. During Summer the city organizes a three week outdoor music and food festival. Thousands of people stroll along the many food trucks and enjoy the music performed on various stages around the Maschsee.

Maschsee Fest

Included Excursions

You will travel with the German students to Berlin and stay there overnight. Berlin is the capital of Germany and has much culture to offer; mainstream culture as well as sub-culture.

Berlin

As part of the coursework, we will also visit the public institutions and firms in Germany.

Travel from Hannover

Hannover is located centrally in Germany where the North/South and East/West bullet train lines intersect. Thus other German cities and close by European cities such as Munich, Berlin, London, Paris, and Amsterdam can be reached easily by train during a weekend.

Downtown Amsterdam

Other European cities can be reached by air. In case you like to extend your stay you might want to travel to cities such as Rome, Madrid, or Warsaw. Note, that extending your travel is not part of the program and you have to buy your own health insurance.

Cost (tentative)

The University of Hannover charges approximately €1,100 ($1,250) which includes accommodation, a free public transport pass, and a Berlin excursion. Health insurance is approx. $150, Round trip flights from LAX run around $1,700 and you will enroll in approximately 9 units summer classes at Cal Poly. The University of Hannover has a cafeteria with very reasonable prices for food and you can buy ethnic food in downtown Hannover for a low price. Other cost depend on your preferences they include costs for private traveling, shopping, and souvenirs.
